J. H. S. Girls' Sport Nite

Although our health program is largely a physical one, it goes beyond the mere development of the body. There are exercises that are designed to promote health; in addition, there are dances and rhythmic to develop poise and grace. But above all, there is an enjoyable program of competitive sports sponsored chiefly to imbue the pupil with a love of games and the spirit of sportsmanship. Girls' Sport Nite is not merely a spectacular show; it is the culmination of the regular indoor physical education program, presenting in review every activity participated in during the season.

In the prelude the Spirit of Reading takes us on a journey back through the ages to the beginning of reading. Here we see how primitive man, through picture writing, recorded the events of the hunt.

Our next picture is that of the first formal reading in America, where we see a group of New England school children reading the famous New England Horn Book.

The third group, the modern group, illustrates the various forms of reading set to the tempo of modern living.

In our finale we see the spirit of reading going on into the future to new and greater horizons.

"The Ballet of The Red Shoes" is from a fairy tale by Hans Christian Anderson. It is a story of a little girl who yearns for a pair of red shoes that the shoemaker of her village has made. Neither Karen nor the shoemaker know that the shoemakers helpers, the pixies, have cast a magic spell on the shoes. Of all the villagers who want the shoes, Karen is the one who wins.

She dances and dances until she is tired and wants to go home, but the shoes are not tired and relentlessly dance on and on. Time rushes by, love rushes by, life rushes by, but the red shoes must go on.
